A LESSON IN LIVING

Once more it is Be Kind To Animals Week, an occasion to dwell thoughtfully on men's progress in a fundamental lesson in living.

There is less sentiment than plain sense in being kind to animals. It is an attitude which bespeaks achievement in culture. A human being who is cruel to a dog, a horse, a cat cannot argue with any conviction that he would not be similarly cruel to his own kind if he were not restrained by fear of the consequences.

So it may be said that prevention of cruelty to animals is really a cause which appeals to all men to rid themselves of the curse of cruelty—not only to animals, but to anything which lives.

SURE ENOUGH

It isn't as though everything in the world had something wrong with it. After all, it's spring, no one has worried audibly about war in Europe all week and—

In Cleveland last Wednesday Bob Feller, one of the newest youngsters in big league ball, came within a close decision at first base of pitching a no hit game.

And Billy Sullivan of the St. Louis Browns, another nice boy, admitted afterward he was sorry he spoiled Bob's chance to be listed with the immortals by getting a scratch single and Bob, himself, said it wasn't important because he got credit for a shutout anyway. There wasn't even a fight on the field over the play, despite the fact some of Feller's team mates were sure he had been robbed.

As the fellow said, "Every night I go to bed these days thinking the world is going to pot and next morning I get up and look out the window and there it is."

STEAM

One hundred years ago (10 p. m., April 22, 1838, to be exact) a steamship called the Sirius dropped anchor in New York harbor, 16½ days out of Cork. The following day another steamship, the Great Western, arrived.

That was the beginning of steamship travel and of the modern race for naval supremacy. These were the first ships to abandon sail. It is an important date in the history of transportation. There followed in quick succession the screw propeller (the first ships were paddle wheelers), the iron ship, the steel ship and later, at the turn of the century, the huge superliners chiefly useful for running deficits.

There followed, also, and the fact shouldn't be neglected, the battleship, now grown to the gargantuan size and mounting guns large enough to demolish whole chunks of civilization at one blast.

There is, perhaps, some significance in the fact the 100th anniversary of steamships finds the United States solemnly wondering whether to appropriate an extra billion for naval defense this year or to spend even more in the effort to scare the rest of the world silly with its preparations for ruling the sea.

YOU DO IT WITH MIRRORS

James Roosevelt, the President's son and secretary, now is the latest to give voice to the idea that when we go in debt to spend, things get better and when we try to get out of debt, things get worse. This is the new deal version of "prosperity's just around the corner."

It stands as No. 1 reason for pump priming in official doctrine on the subject. There is just one thing wrong with it. Like so many words of wisdom, it can be turned aside bluntly with the retort, "Tain't so."

The government spent $2,777,000,000 in the 12 months before April 1, 1933. It has spent an increasing amount every year since then. On April 1 this year it had spent $5,676,045,774—the largest amount for any 12 month period in the new deal's history. Figures have been juggled wildly between normal and emergency accounts, but the total each year has been larger than it was the year before. There has been no decline of spending as far as the total is concerned.

"The fact of the matter is," Walter Lippmann wrote Thursday, "that the Roosevelt administration entered this depression with expenditures already at such a high level that it does not dare to step them up drastically in order to prime the pump. Because Mr. Roosevelt failed to retrench in the good years, he does not really dare to prime the pump in this bad year."

SOMEONE MUST PAY THE BILL, SAYS LANDON

TOPEKA, Kas., April 23.—Alf M. Landon called upon "an articulate citizenry" today to make it clear to congress that "this huge appropriation" proposed in President Roosevelt's new recovery program must be met by adequate tax provisions.

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee, in an address before the Optimist club, said the President's proposal has ended the "period of uncertainty" as to the government's fiscal policy.

Inflation Again

"We are again upon an inflationary course," he said. "If every time there is a recession in business the only way out that a government can find is a further huge expenditure program to be applied on top of expenditures already too great, then we will go bankrupt."

"If the government spends money, it must collect revenues to match the expenditures. It is not yet too late to pull up and save ourselves and pay our honest debts. We can pay the public debt of these United States if we are honest and economical. But we will have to economize—we will have to stop our spendthrift course."

The nation's hope, he said, "lies in congress, backed by an articulate citizenry, to continue to take action and assume leadership."

Up To Congress

"Congress must decide if we are to take the hard road, or if we shall dash gaily and blindly into this intoxicated hilarity of inflation by meeting our current expenditures for the ninth successive year with I. O. U.'s."

All responsibility, Landon said, must not be placed upon congress, and the citizenry must not be "in different."

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, April 24

Sunday's horoscope holds promise of rather peculiar angles in connection with important matters of estate, home, investments or progressive business propositions. An elder or a bereavement may affect these propositions. In all, hidden factors call for much vigilance and discretion. Move wisely as important issues are at stake.

Those whose birthday it is are at the crossroads of very important events having to do with the fortunes, the home, and the interests of the young, with elders figuring in such major decisions. An element of intrigue, peculiarity or even treachery might arise to cloud the issues unless great precaution and wisdom are exercised.

A child born on this day may have very expansive ideas and large ambitions, which, although ultimately successful and productive, may find difficult and treacherous angles. It should finally attain renown and good reputation for major accomplishments.

For Monday, April 25

Monday's astrological forecast is for very important occurrences with high promises of major operations in business, investments or speculation. Promotion, prestige, substantial support of influential personages and financial increase are shown, but all these may be put in jeopardy by quarrelsome, rash and hasty decisions or untoward actions. Be calm, wise, tactful and restrained.

Those whose birthday it is are promised excellent opportunities for definite progress, promotion, enhanced popularity and financial increase through work, employment or investments. But all may be imperiled by rash, tempestuous and passionate activities, with unhappy reactions on the personal contentment. Use restraint and sagacity to reach unusual climaxes.

A child born on this day may have great ambitions and expansive ideas backed up by much practical creative ability, but a tempestuous, impulsive and quarrelsome nature may undermine its best interests.

HEALTH

INFANT HEALTH

IT IS important for the young mother to be familiar with all those signs which show that her baby is normal and healthy. Then, if they are missing, she will know the child is not well and should have medical care.

The mother job is the best of all jobs, but it is not an easy one by any means. Unlike the older child and the adult, the infant cannot tell in words that it suffers pain. The mother must learn how changes from normal can be quickly detected. Certain simple signs, such as changes in the appearance of the skin, restlessness, irritability and persistent crying, may be the only warnings given by the sick child.

Has Clear Skin
A healthy baby has a clear skin. Its eyes are bright and wide open. The child has what is known as a "contented" appearance. Such a youngster cries very little, has a good appetite, and sleeps quietly with the mouth closed.

If the baby suffers from some discomfort, it appears tired and is irritable and easily annoyed. Very likely the infant will cry constantly and be restless in spite of every attention. The bowels may be irregular. The stools, perhaps, are abnormal in color, odor and consistency.

These are signs that must not be ignored, and because of their importance the mother should be familiar with them. Let me repeat that any deviation from the normal should arouse suspicion of disease and the need of medical attention. Often the infant shows no other sign of ill health than a constant loss of weight or a failure to gain weight. These are important signs because a steady gain in weight is a characteristic of the healthy baby.

Facts on Weight
Under normal circumstances the average baby doubles its birth weight in the fifth or sixth month. By the end of the first year the weight should be approximately three times the birth weight. Regular weighing keeps the mother informed of the child's welfare.

There are other signs which indicate whether development and growth are normal. For example the baby should be able to hold its head by the third month, sit up or eight months it should be able to sit erect and begin to crawl.

Of course, some babies are slow in doing these things, but if the infant has the other signs of good health, delay in these matters is not important. In the near future I shall tell you some more about the normal progress of a healthy infant.

(Owing to pressure of other business, Dr. Copeland cannot answer questions from readers.)

Court Unimpressed

TAZEWELL, Va.—John M. Cross, Pikeville, Ky., Negro, told the judge he shouldn't be sent to jail for possessing untaxed liquor, and gave six reasons:

He is 95 years old.
He's been married 11 times.
He is the father of 34 children.
He served with the Union army in the Civil war.
He is a chiropractor.
He makes snake oil that restores natural color to the hair.
The judge was unimpressed. "Thirty days and $30 and costs," he decreed.

Services In Our Churches

English Lutheran Members Observe Anniversary Date

The congregation of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church will be host to the Canton-Youngstown Federation of Luther Leagues tomorrow afternoon and evening in observance of the 10th anniversary of the founding of the organization.

The anniversary program will begin at 3 p. m., preceded by a 10-minute organ recital. Rev. Rudolph Schulz, D. D., president of Carthage college of Carthage, Ill., will be the speaker.

The sacrament of Holy Baptism will be administered to children at the morning worship service of the church. Other services are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45—(Mark 9:2-10)—Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

There must be some building for tomorrow. "Where there is no vision, the people perish." People who are idealists may be called visionary. Yet there is much need for these people today and we see a better day and future ahead. It is Christ who has served to give vision and far-sighted to Christian living. It is the teachings of Christ that keep mankind from being content and satisfied when there is so much more to be done in the world. The dreams of visionaries may seem impossible today, but tomorrow may see their realization.

Morning worship, 11. Sermon: "Blessed Eyes"

The power to see is one of God's good gifts to man. It is a marvelous organ that God has placed in the human body. What we see can have a wide variety. Nothing more wonderful was ever seen by the human eye than the actual presence of Christ after the resurrection day. The disciples actually saw Jesus. Their doubts could not have been driven away otherwise. Christ cannot be seen physically today. Yet His presence and blessing can be felt by every believing Christian.

Announcements

Emmanuel Lutheran Services Tomorrow

The Sunday school with classes for all ages meets at 9 a. m. Lee Schaefer, superintendent. The pastor's class meets at 9:15 a. m.

Divine worship service at 10 a. m. The pastor's sermon theme for this, the first Sunday after Easter, is, "Peace Be Unto You." The spirit of Easter still lingers in the hearts of Christians. They are not yet done with the Risen Lord and with the significance of His triumph. Their faith in Him was dead and behold, He liveth enables them to obtain the victory over the world. He lives and still makes Himself known to His disciples, to dispel the doubt and the gloom that would rob of a precious comfort.

German services at 11 a. m.

Easter and After
Every minister dreads the post-Easter lapse of the seasonal "Christian" who give promise of spiritual life during the Lenten season and, of course, appear at the Easter festival and then after Easter promptly sink back into their former somnolent condition. A preacher would not be human if he did not thrill to the crowds that throng into the house of God on the great festival of the resurrection. But his joy is always tinged with sadness because of the terrific let-down which the following Sunday is bound to bring when the "Easter Christians" have done their annual religious chore and have gone back to the world.

There is no indication in the Bible that fellowship with the Master is to be seasonal. If it means anything at all it must be a steady companionship. The spiritual needs are just as pressing after Easter as before. The sustenance for the soul is a constant requirement. The wonderful Easter Gospel has been fruitless if it has not inspired a new spirit of consecration and a holy resolve to walk close to the risen Lord. Attend church every Lord's Day.

Announcements

Quaker Thinclads Lose To Youngstown Team in First Meet Of Season

Rayen High Team Conquers Salem, 60-53, In Dual Track And Field Meet; Max Lutsch Scores Three Firsts For Individual Honors

Coach Fred Cope's Salem High school thinclads went down to defeat in their first dual track and field meet of the 1938 season at Youngstown yesterday, losing to Youngstown Rayen's veteran team, 60 to 53.

The outcome of the meet was not decided until the final event, the mile relay, in which Rayen's team of Hannan, Wallace, Reilly and Fagan raced to victory in 3 minutes, 49.2 seconds.

The score stood at 55-53 going into the final event with Rayen holding the small edge. Salem's chances of winning the meet were hampered in the early stages of the competition when Joe Morris fell during the running of the 120-yard hurdles and suffered slight injuries which forced him to drop from the 220-yard dash and the 220-yard low hurdles.

Before falling in the high-jump event, Morris picked up three points for the Quakers by finishing second in the 100-yard dash. Cope was counting on him to score other points in the two hurdle events and the 220-yard dash.

Max Lutsch carried off individual honors for the Quakers by winning three events, the high jump, shot put and discus. Lutsch topped five feet, 11 inches in the high jump without taking off his sweat clothes, tossed the discus 111 feet, 9 inches and heaved the shot 42 feet, 7 inches.

The Quakers made a clean sweep in the pole vault in which Bob Clark captured first place by clearing the bar at 10 feet, 9 inches. Cliff Lowry was second in this event and Gilbert Everhart, third.

The only other Salem first was in the mile run in which Harold Culler raced to victory in 4 minutes, 56 seconds, his best time of the year.

Ken Wilson paced Rayen to the victory with the first places. He won the 120-high and the 220-low hurdles and the broad jump.

The Quakers next meet will be Tuesday afternoon when they face Boardman and Lisbon teams at Reilly stadium.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY SID FEDER

(Pinch Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Notes off the cuff: Last man to find out about Joe DiMaggio's signing was Manager Joe McCarthy. He was out of his hotel at the time and didn't get the news till hours later. Fred Apostoli's appendicitis may keep him out of the ring till September. The electrolysis associates have a picture of Lou Gehrig hanging in their Broadway offices to show folks what "an ugly appearance" a hairy chest gives a man. Tsk, tsk. Would it surprise you to know Earle Sande rates the chief (40 to 1 shot) as good as his stablemate, Stagehand, 4-1 favorite, for the Kentucky Derby? And that one member of the stable force already has put a penny or two on the chief's nose to waltz in?

The Cardinals, in crying need of ball-players of all sorts, just released Johnny Cooney, who's only one of the game's best fielding outfielders. And whose lifetime records show he struck out just 58 times in 13 years of big-time batting. Mike Jacobs is figuring on a sell-out for the Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong fust next month, even with the Garden wall arranged to hold 70,000... more than $30,000 in reservations already in the box office.

Tab Dutch Mueller, Phil's second-sacker up from Houston, as one of the season's rookie finds... A tip-off, gals: If you're around Buck McCormick, the Reds' first baseman, and he makes a pass at your scalp, think nothing of it. He collects hairpins, because he thinks each one he finds means a base hit. Al Schacht probably won't reach the coast on his clowning around this summer. Jim McMillen, the old footballer, is running for Lake county treasurer in Illinois. Rogers Hornsby, by likes the Yanks and Cubs for the pennant. Dr. James Storer, the beauty authority, will pay ten bucks for every usable anecdote you send him on "good-looking or beautiful athletes." Does anyone else want first crack at Ernie Lombardi or Goose Goslin?

Gabe Paul, the Reds' Boswell, comes up with the word "baseballically" in the new issue of the Reds' magazine. Al Schacht has sat up nights thinking of that one. Gabe's suspension of Charlie Kautzinger goes down as one of the sillier things of the season, if you take the word of folks writing in. When Red Lucas clicked against the Reds yesterday, he made it 11 wins against one defeat in his lifetime pitching record opposite the Rhinelanders. Now that DiMaggio is in, seven American league managers, who were leading the cheering section, are back whistling in the dark again.

Combining a 54-pin handicap with a score of 2095 in actual pins, the American Automobile Association team won the five-woman event of the Masonic Ladies League's handicap bowling tournament at the Masonic alleys last night.

The A.A.A.'s winning mark of 2149 was only 18 pins better than the second place score of 2131 rolled by Mullins Office ladies. S. S. Kresge finished close behind Mullins with a 2128 score.

The Salem News copped fourth place with 2075, while the Ohio Edison team, which won the league championship this season, was fifth with 2070.

Elks No. 2 chalked up a 2067 score to finish in sixth place, and its partner-team, Elks No. 1 turned in an 1883 mark for seventh place. The Electric Furnace, eighth-member of the ladies' circuit, did not compete in the tournament.

Mrs. Ruth Hine paced the A.A.A. team into first place with a 504 series made on games of 195, 185 and 124.

Doubles and singles events of the tournament will be rolled at the temple next Wednesday and Thursday nights. The schedule for these events will be announced Monday.

CHANGES MADE IN RULES FOR CLASS A LOOP

Senior Circuit Plans To Open Season May 2; Eight Teams Join

A new rule allowing players to bunt in Class A league softball games was in the books today following its passage at a meeting at the Memorial building last night at which the senior circuit was organized for the 1938 season.

Six managers attended the meeting and four favored trying out the bunt rule during the first round of the league season. A provision was made for a vote of managers at the end of the first round to determine if the rule is satisfactory.

In the event the bunt rule meets with the disfavor of the managers and players during the first round, the league will return to its old rule of no bunting.

Representatives of Demings and the Salem News teams were opposed to the bunt rule. The managers decided to open the Class A season Monday, May 2 and to limit the membership of the league to eight teams. Last year nine teams were affiliated with the circuit. Five-inning games will be played during the first round. Games during the other rounds will be seven innings.

J. M. Joe Kelley, manager of the Memorial building and active head of Class A and Class B leagues, announced that eight teams have already signed their intention of joining the league.

These are: Old Timers, last year's champion; Trades Class, Mullins, Salem News, Demings, Ohio Edison, Salem China and CIO. All but the China and CIO teams were represented at the meeting.

In addition to allowing the bunt, managers made several other changes in the rules.

One important alteration effecting pitching declares that any ball thrown to a batter with the use of a side-arm delivery will be called a ball regardless of what the batter does.

The team player-limit was cut from 16 to 14 men and a new rule was instituted which makes free agents of all players from disbanded teams.

A rule designed to prevent the first game each evening from dragging out too long if started late was also passed. This rule declares that if the first game is started anytime after the deadline of 5:45 it shall be limited to five innings.

During the first round when five-inning games are being played, a late starting game will be limited to four innings.

It was decided to play four rounds during the league season with the winners of each round meeting in a play-off for the championship. If the play-off should involve three teams, one of which has won two rounds, the teams which have won only one round will meet first to determine which one will play the two round-winner.

Nothing was done toward organization of the Class B league because only four managers of teams in this circuit were present at the meeting. Another meeting for the Class B league will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Memorial building.

TOLL CLIMBING IN MINE BLAST

Explosion Shatters Keen Mountain Shaft At Grundy, Va.

Evins, Kilmer Patrick, Ed Gilley, Glad Dolar, J. W. Combs, Glenn Ratcliff, Arvil Norris, Marcus Thacker, O. C. Hitchcock, Charlie Keen, W. H. Orant, Walker Sutherland, Ancil Owens and P. L. Buckler.

Three miners suffered injuries. They were J. W. Elam and Clarence Combs, who suffered burns and back injuries, and Ed Harris, who received several broken ribs. Elam and Combs were in a critical condition at a Richlands hospital 13 miles from the scene.

7,000-Ton Capacity
The coal operation on Keen mountain began last November and it was one of the most modern in the Appalachian region. It had a potential capacity of 7,000 tons a day but had been operated in recent weeks at only 2,000 tons daily.

Sergeant Paul F. Springer of the Virginia state police witnessed the explosion and said it looked like the whole top of the mountain was coming off. He rushed up the mountain down which tumbled the huge electric motor, and a house. Merchandise was thrown from shelves in a store a mile away.

The officer said two men were decapitated by the big motor as it fell. Sergeant Springer took charge at the entrance as friends and relatives hurriedly assembled, frightened, almost stunned. He praised the conduct of those who feared their loved ones were entombed.

"I didn't have to tell them to get back but once—and I was the only officer up there at that time," he said. "If that explosion went back far enough and pulled down those ceilings it may take a week to get them out," he added.

State Falls Delay Progress
Rescue squads reported numerous falls of slate and coal delayed progress but the men were climbing over them whenever possible. Harris, a worker outside the entrance, was burned by the flames from the mine.

"You couldn't describe it," he said. "One minute we were there busy and the next everything was in a mess. It's hard to think just what happened."

Sergeant Springer said he heard one explosion as he entered a filling station, turned and witnessed two more. He rushed up the mountain to find the fan house, with machinery for ventilating the mine, blown to bits.

"Mine cars and motors were blown off the tracks and down the mountain like a cyclone had hit them," he said.

Hobart Herman, mine foreman, said he saw timber "just raining" after the explosion. One house near the entrance was demolished.

The rescue squads came from Norton, Va., Jenkins Jones, Ky., and from West Virginia within a few hours after the alarm had been sounded. Only one telephone goes to the mine and Grundy has a single circuit. Norfolk and Western railroad employees aided in sending out the calls.

The Red Jacket mine was of the "drift" type used in operations in this section where miners follow natural drifts through rock formations. These mines seldom go deeply underground but may run for considerable distances under the surface of the land.

CONSERVATION HITS NEW NOTE

Education, Rather Than Enforcement, Will Be Stressed

starts right back on the farmer's land, in this respect. "There is no sense in game protection," Short declared, "unless there is something to protect." The speaker ably presented other values in the conservation setup. "The program," he said, "today means something merely more than dumping a lot of fish in some creek, releasing a batch of rabbits or pheasants in some particular woods and fields, and then turning loose a game warden with a badge and a gun to watch them."

Must Educate Youth
The new scheme of things means educating the young people of America, as well as the adults, to the values of God's outdoors. "If instruction in conservation were made available early enough in the lives of these men in the penitentiary at Columbus, well, they wouldn't be there today. There are no bad boys—they are misdirected boys."

Short declared that sportsmen in particular and the public in general should do more than merely preach sermons, too. He advised that they, themselves, practice what they preach.

Ralph Wang, president of the fish and game association, opened the meeting, presenting Lon Boring, county game warden, who presided. Boring presented Ray Lawrence of Youngstown, member of the conservation board, who spoke briefly. As entertainment, the Maple Brothers quartet of Salineville sang several selections.

Sportsmen from all sections of the county, as well as fish and game officials and Deputy Wardens Ross Hoffman and Robert Farr of Salem and Wayne Cox of Kensington were present.

G. W. Fellows of Steubenville, who was commissioned by a museum in 1936 to invade the far north for polar bear, walrus and other species, showed interesting moving pictures of his trip, including views of Eskimo life, the shooting of the big bears, some weighing more than half a ton, and other exciting events of the trip.

The program followed a fish fry.

will be held at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the Presbyterian church. The 50-voice choir will present the cantata, "Easter Tide", which was given Palm Sunday.

Hold Final Dinner
More than 350 church members and friends attended a dinner and program Friday evening in the church, the last affair of the kind in the present building. Work on a remodeling and reconstruction program is now under way.

R. S. McCulloch discussed the progress of the new building plans, reviewed the funds campaign and spoke briefly on the new building. V. R. Martin, in a talk on "A Story of Brick", presented a plan to members whereby 30,000 bricks in the new building will be "sold" to the congregation to provide additional funds. Purchase of the bricks will, in many cases, be made as memorial tributes by former church and Sunday school members. About 2,000 persons are expected to be contacted in the project.

The program also included: Congregational singing, led by W. Wentz Alspaugh; address of welcome, Rev. R. D. Walter; vocal selection, J. P. Ollman; vocal duet, Miss Mabel Burton and W. Wentz Alspaugh. Selections by the male chorus, a Welsh melody, the group including G. W. Bunn, W. D. King, P. W. Davis, Duane Dilworth, Rev. Walter, R. S. McCulloch, Robert Wright, Kenneth Wood, Harold Babb and W. Wentz Alspaugh. Concluding prayer was led by Mrs. Hannah Maule.

ASSEMBLY PLANS RELIEF SESSION

Legislative Aids Draft New Program For May Session

ties bonds of that amount in two years. Most of the proceeds of those levies now go to relief, he added. The governor said that Verner E. Metcalf of Marietta, senate Republican floor leader, and William McCulloch of Miami county, Republican House leader, favored a "moratorium" session so that there would be no delay in speeding the program into law.

Establishment of a relief director and setting up of administrative standards and regulations by which local governments would be guided was declared by the governor as looked upon with favor by legislative leaders.

Says Conditions "Chaotic"
Administration now is local and O. P. Van Schoik, chief examiner in the state auditor's office, told a conference of county and city officials Thursday that conditions were "chaotic," "very few" township trustees were doing a good job and establishment of statewide standards was the only solution.

A proposal that new real estate improvements be exempted for five years from taxation was made by the governor during the meeting. He said he believed that it would encourage building, stimulate employment and reduce relief rolls. It would apply, he added, to both residential and business construction.

A constitutional amendment would be necessary to provide the exemption. The governor said that in event the legislature refused to adopt a resolution to put the proposition on the August primary ballots, circulation of petitions could achieve the same objective.

Theater Attractions

Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche in a scene from "In Old Chicago" at the State Sunday through Wednesday.

Only two pictures—both exceptionally good—are booked for the State theater next week. "In Old Chicago", a history of the early life of the metropolis, will show Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Heading the huge cast of the picture, a highlight of which is the scene showing the burning of the city, are Alice Faye, Tyrone Power, Don Ameche, Alice Brady, Phyllis Brooks, Andy Devine, Tom Brown, Brian Donlevy, June Storey, Sidney Blackmer and Berton Churchill.

Alice Brady has the role of Mrs. O'Grady, mother of three sons, played by Power, Ameche and Brown. Power is seen as the son who becomes a rising political power of the city, Ameche as a serious-minded lawyer, opposing the corruption of the city politics.

Both Love Miss Faye
Both fall in love with Miss Faye, who has the role of a cafe singer. Power marries her and events place the brothers against each other politically. Mrs. O'Leary, hearing that her son has married the cafe singer, rushes from the barn. The cow kicks over the lighted lamp the woman was using and the great fire of 1871 is started.

The other picture at the State is "Jezebel", starring Bette Davis. The film will be featured Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Henry Fonda, George Brent, Margaret Lindsay, Donald Crisp, Fay Bainter, Richard Cromwell, Henry O'Neill, Spring Byington and John Liel have supporting roles. Bette Davis plays the role of a flirtatious, heartless southern belle whose own wilfulness nearly ruins her life and the lives of three others. Fonda plays the role of her sweetheart, who leaves her because of her
